Transportation Should Not Be a Roadblock to Access Care

Mental health resources can feel overwhelming for clients who are trying to get the care they need.

Transportation challenges can make it difficult for individuals to access the support they deserve. This unnecessary obstacle can be why a client decides not to seek care.

But did you know that when you donate to People Incorporated, you can choose exactly where your money goes?

For example, a donation of $45 can cover a client's transportation costs, giving them access to therapy or another service, such as our crisis program. This support removes barriers and empowers clients to begin their healing journey, making a meaningful impact.

Your support can remove the barrier and bring someone one step closer to the care they deserve.
